ASSOCIATE IN SCIENCE RECOMMENDED ROADMAP

This academic roadmap is designed to help you select courses each term for your Associate in Science Degree in Interior Design Technology (2389) (A.S.). The mission of the Associate in Science in Interior Design Technology program is to educate, train, and develop students for diverse opportunities in the interior design field. This program is intended for individuals seeking entry-level employment in the interior design profession. The program utilizes professional standards established by the Council of Interior Design Accreditation and industry partners in developing and implementing the curriculum. There is an emphasis on theory, practical hands-on training, and field experiences. This balanced approach enhances the educational experience and provides a sound foundation for distinctive success in the field of interior design.

Full-time students will refer to the term-by-term recommendations, and part-time students will refer to the course-by-course recommendations. "Mile Markers and Notes" on the Roadmap refer to important guidelines for program completion.

This roadmap is intended to provide general guidance about recommended courses and mile markers. For specific guidance about your individual academic degree plan, please see a program advisor. Please also refer to the College Catalog for additional information.

Embedded Certificate(s)

A technical certificate, Home Staging Specialist (6399) (T.C.), is included as an option within this degree program. Students may pursue the A.S. degree and earn the technical certificate while completing the requirements for the degree or pursue the certificate to develop or upgrade their skills. Contact an advisor to determine the career education path that is best for you.

Career Options: With an Associate in Science degree in Interior Design Technology, graduates qualify for entry-level positions with interior design studios, architectural firms, furniture and design showrooms, and other businesses specializing in interior furnishings. Types of career positions include interior designer, design assistant, sales representatives, CAD operator, interior decorator, merchandise displayer, and space planner. Designers are needed to respond to consumer expectations that the interiors of homes and businesses meet certain conditions, such as being environmentally friendly or more easily accessible.
