

As we recently shared, FSCJ will be offering a $50 incentive to all full-time, regular part-time and adjunct faculty teaching this Fall Term. In order to be eligible, employees must be fully vaccinated by October 15.

To qualify, you should log in to the FSCJ Safe app and follow the prompts under COVID-19 Tools to electronically submit a copy of your CDC card indicating full vaccination. If you are unable to submit this documentation electronically, you can visit any of our campuses or centers and report to the security desk to provide your card for verification. This incentive will apply to all faculty and staff who have been vaccinated by October 15, 2021. You will see the $50 as an addition to a November paycheck.

Please note: Students received information on a similar incentive program which will provide them with a $100 book voucher to be use in the FSCJ bookstores, either on campus or online. We understand that many of our employees are also FSCJ students, however, these individuals will need to select which incentive they'd like to receive. Please use either your student or employee email address on the application depending on which incentive you would like to receive. Those with multiple entries will default to the student incentive.

For resources, including links to locations to obtain your vaccine, visit our website here.