

Good afternoon students,

I want to begin by saying thank you again for your support and understanding during this past week as we have been working through the process to transition to a primarily online format.

I know there has been much anticipation regarding how we will move forward for the remainder of Spring. Based on recent guidance from the Governor, we will be continuing online instruction for the remainder of the Spring Term for those classes currently being moved to that format. This applies to all courses that will begin online this coming Monday, March 23.

For those courses that require hands-on or applied learning, your instructors will provide guidance for the remainder of the term. We will continue to follow the guidelines from the CDC, adhering to having no more than 10 people in a single occupied space and social distancing while also meeting the needs of course completion. This is only allowed for labs and hands-on courses.

We are working on some important resources that can help you as you navigate this new online format. This information will be provided to you via email tomorrow and will also be located on our website at fscj.edu/COVID-19.

Should you have any questions, please call the Contact Center at (904) 646-2300 or email info@fscj.edu.

Again, I cannot express my appreciation enough for your patience during this unexpected time. Please be in communication with your professors. They are truly the best source of information for your particular courses.

Sincerely,

Dr. A
College President
